The 2008 Orvieto Classico Superiore Campo del Guardiano is stunningly beautiful for its inner sweetness and perfume. Mint, sage, peaches and flowers are some of the nuances that emerge from this textured, impeccable Orvieto. As delicious as the wine is today, it clearly has the stuffing to age well for at least a handful of years, if not significantly longer. The finish is round, textured and totally inviting. The Campo del Guardiano comes from a parcel of old vines at high altitudes and was aged in steel. Anticipated maturity: 2012-2020.

The 2010 Viognier L'Ultima Spiaggia is decidedly inward and tightly-coiled. The personality of the vintage dominates over varietal typicality, but in absolute terms it is hard to argue with the absolute quality of what is in the glass. A taut, steely finish rounds things out nicely. Anticipated maturity: 2012-2018.

The 2010 Grechetto presents a distinctly rich, honeyed style for this indigenous white grape. Layers of juicy apricots and peaches flow effortlessly from this round, harmonious white. Anticipated maturity: 2011-2014.

The estate's 2007 Armaleo is 95% Cabernet Sauvignon and 5% Cabernet Franc aged in French oak barrels. It is a big, ripe wine loaded with dark fruit, espresso, herbs and spices, but the overall balance suffers from excessive oakiness. Anticipated maturity: 2012-2017.
